SITUATION SERIOUS

U. S., Britain Prepared For Trouble

BULLETIN

SHANGHAI, Jan. 28.—Preceded by a naval bombardment in which 40 shells were hurled at the Woo Sung force which were subsequently taken by Japanese marines, the Japanese tonight began the occupation of the Chapei district of Shanghai.

SHANGHAI, Jan. 28—As 13 additional warships sailed into Shanghai harbor late this afternoon to back Japanese plans for "necessary drastic action" against the Chinese of Shanghai, the Chinese mayor, Wu Te-Chen unconditionally accepted the Japanese demands.

The Chinese acceptance, however, which came shortly before the expiration of the time limit set in the "final" ultimatum of the Japanese, was taken with little faith, and serious trouble was as imminent as ever.

DOUBT SINCERITY

Doubting the sincerity of the mayor's reply, the Japanese ordered marines to visit and occupy headquarters of the Chinese boycott association to investigate the mayor's success in having the organization cease its campaign against Japanese goods.

The Japanese stated that if the report of the marines was unsatisfactory, the plan to occupy the city would be carried out as previously arranged.

PLANE SIGHTS OIL ON OCEAN; 60 THOT DEAD

Patch Of Oil Said to Extend Over Area of Five Miles Today

WEATHER IS BAD

Work Goes On As Hope for Safety Lost

PORTLAND, Dorsetshire, Jan. 28.—An airship, flying low over the sea three miles from Portland Bill, the spot where it is belived the illfated submarine M-2 with 60 men aboard sank late today, found a large patch of oil on the water.

The pilot of the plane reported that he saw what he believed to be a ship cylinder floating in the oil. The patch extending over a service area of nearly five miles was increasing.

DIVERS HANDICAPPED

The Adamant one of the admiralty vessels leading the search for the missing submarine, reported that it had sent divers to the bottom two and a half miles off Abbotsbury on Portland Bill but that the swift current had made it impossible to keep them down.

PORTLAND, Dorsetshire, England, Jan. 28.—Hope of rescuing alive the 60 men aboard the missing British submarine M-2 was virtually abandoned today.

Although attempts to locate the missing submersible were carried on valiantly by a fleet of navy rescue vessels of various types, two important factors hardened the opinion in naval circles the men would never be brought above the waters of the English channel alive. They were:

1. The 48-hours time limit for which there would be sufficient oxygen for the men to breath was up. There was a scant possibility some of the hardier men might survive a few hours longer, although this was remote.

2. The weather steadily grew worse as the sun rose and it was impossible for divers to descend to the objects on the channel floor upon which the navy now concentratel. Rough seas and strong tides prevented operations as the critical last hour of possible life for the seven officers and 53 members of the crew passed.

FREED BY HIS KIDNAPERS

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Jan. 28.—Released by a gang of kidnapers who had threatened to kill him, Howard A. Woolverton, wealthy manufacturer, was back in his home today, recuperating from his 24-hour ordeal as a captive.

Unharmed, he ran through the door of his palatial house in South Bend's fashionable East Side 14 minutes before midnight last night

"Where is Florence?" were the first words he uttered.

He was told that his wife was upstairs, suffering from tortured nerves resulting from the tension of waiting for word about her missing husband. Woolverton dashed upstairs to his wife's bedside.

Whether or not a ransom was paid for the millionaire's release was undisclosed. But, it was thought that the desperadoes who tore Woolverton away from his wife Tuesday night did not collect the $50,000 they had demanded for their captive's freedom. Yesterday Woolverton's relatives offered to pay $15,000 for his release and it was believed possible that this amount had been delivered.

Cooking School Interest Is Great

The whole town is talking, at least the feminine portion of it, about The Herald Cooking School, which holds forth at Memorial Hall. The first day's large crowd was topped by a still bigger audience of housekeepers on Wednesday's School, and by the interested queries which have poured into The Herald office, a much larger audience was expected at today's session. This was the third in the week's program of four sessions and it began promptly at two o'clock.

Flowers provided by Brehmer Greenhouses and music by C. F. Seitz added to the beauty and gaiety of the afternoon. Early comers enjoyed these and a leisurely view of the fine gifts displayed on the stage. By the opening hour many women had crowded into the hall and they greeted Mrs. Thurn with an enthusiasm which indicates that homemaking and cookery are subjects of lively interest to the housekeepers of Circleville and vicinity.

COOKS ON STAGE

Mrs. Thurn cooked the dishes which were listed on the day's program right on the stage and as in the previous session, she explained each step, discussed the food products which went into each dish and dwelt upon their nutritional value and importance to health. Besides this discussion and demonstration, Mrs. Thurn gave a most enlightening and helpful resume of new housekeeping tools. Many such devices were included in her model kitchen. She pointed out their time-saving and labor-saving qualities. Like the up-to-date equipment which men insist upon having, Mrs Thurn feels that women should have their cookery offices equally well equipped.

As in the first session many questions were asked and Mrs Thurn was kept busy answering them Such questions as "How long

GUN TAKEN FROM PAIR OBTAIN LOOT

Richard Clark, Harold Bowsher Face Charges of Newell McNeal

WEAPONS FOUND

Goods, Filling Auto, Are Confiscated

Richard Clark, 30, former local baseball player, and Harold Bowsher, 25, recently released from the Kansas state prison where he served three and one-half years, were being held in the county jail Thursday, following their arrest at 10:50 p. m., Wednesday after they had allegedly broken into the service station of Newell McNeal, east of Williamsport. The men were charged with breaking and entering an inhabited dwelling in the night season and with grand larceny on a complaint filed by Mr. McNeal before Squire E. C. Friese Thursday morning.

Goods valued at more than $100 was confiscated in the Chevrolet automobile driven by Bowsher but owned by Clark's mother. The property was identified by Mr. McNeal as stolen from his station.

AROUSED SUSPICION

The local police department was notified that an automobile from which several articles had dropped was coming toward Circleville and the sheriff's office was called at 10:40 p. m. Sheriff Charles Radcliff and Deputies Bryan Custer and Miller Fissell drove toward the Williamsport-pk and turned their car around at the Crites elevator. They had waited but a few minutes when the Chevrolet bearing the two men appeared.

Fissell, driving the car, drove beside the Chevrolet coupe and forced its driver to stop. Both men in the Chevrolet began to search the floor of their car and when the officers, Custer at one side and Fissell at the other, opened the doors of the car they saw a revolver on the floor which the two men were trying to pick up. Their car was so full of articles that they could not pick up the revolver and Deputy Fissell grabbed the gun ahead of the men.

What might have happened had either Clark or Bowsher reached the gun first is not known.

FIND WEAPONS

A search of the car found, besides the articles taken from the McNeal station, a long bowie knife secreted in a door pocket of the automobile and a blackjack was taken from Clark's pocket.

The men were brought to the county jail, Clark in the Chevrolet car with Deputy Custer and Bowsher with Radcliff and Fissell.

Suspicion of Robert Baird, 19, son of Fred Baird of Stumpy Lane or the Williamsport-pk, who was returning from a basketball game at Williamsport was aroused when he saw some tobacco and a battery fall from the Chevrolet car. He told his father who called the local police station and the police called the sheriff's office.

BROKE WINDOW

Entrance to the filling station which is operated by Leslie Payne, who also makes his home there, was gained by breaking a window. Payne was in Michigan with his employer when the robbery occurred

The list of goods taken from the station included a radio, a battery, a battery eliminator, 30 Havana cigars, a peanut machine, 17 Red Top cigars, a number of candy bars, 39 aspirin containers, three boxes of Golden Cherry candy, 50 boxes of Creole cigars, an alarm clock, 23 packages of Union Workman tobacco, flashlights, matches, chewing gum and an automobile tire

Expect Governor White To Announce Candidacy

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 28—Ohio fidgeted outside the gate of the 1932 gubernatorial campaign arena today, pointed for a great outburst of political activity expected to be unloosed tonight by Governor George White's announcement of candidacy for reelection

Important moves by Republican, including a definite yes or no statement from Former Governor Myers Y Cooper, were expected to follow in quick succession after Governor White's scheduled formal announcement at Lima tonight.

G. O. P. TO LAUNCH

Cooper's definite statement may follow only a few hours after White's address tonight, possibly tomorrow If it announces candidacy, as close associates believe it will, it will also make public his entire platform.

Brown and Ingalls are awaiting the Cooper decision with anxiety Both have been subjected to criticism even within their own party for failure to state their platforms and policies, platforms and

Little Theatre's Play Is Success

Showing before a well-filled house, the Little Theatre players of Circleville high school under the direction of J. Wylie Fetherlin received much applause and praise in their first production, a three act farce, "Who Wouldn't Be Crazy?" presented in the high school auditorium Wednesday night. The show will be repeated at 8 p. m Thursday.

From beginning to end the play afforded a hilarious time for the large crowd which nearly packed the auditorium

OPENS IN SANITARIUM

The play opens in Good Samaritan Sanitarium near New York City, which is a rest cure for highly-strung nervous persons. Evelyn Winslow, young heiress, had come here following a nervous break-down when she learned her long-lost lover, Edward Gordon had died. She is in possession of a large number of valuable jewels which she insists on wearing in public while under nervous spells Two characters known as Inmate number one and Inmate number two gain admission to the sanitarium under alleged false pretense in an attempt to get the valuable jewels, and through some plot finally succeed in accomplishing their purpose but are later found out

Jane Mader playing the difficult role of Miss Winslow, enacted her part in a charming manner and her fiance, Mr Gordon, as played by Lutz Ashbrook also exemplified his part well Inmate number one claims to be "crazy" and strolls around in a Hamlet costume quoting Shakespeare and giving the nearest correct interpretation of a 'nut.' This role is capably handled by John Mason whose tactics keep the audience in laughter throughout the show His partner, Martha McCrady, claims she is a songbird who escaped from the Metropolitan Opera House and then again she thinks she is the Daughter of the Regiment. She also impressed the audience in her clever and masterful acting of her part

Jack Marshall, the hero and Lois Meridith, the heroine sponsor some love scenes, the sweetness of which is said to be good enough to cure the hair of old maids John Styers and Betty Pickens handled these parts to perfection

E Pluribus Unum Worthington and Pendie, the colored, janitor and maid, as portrayed by John Maxey and Margaret Long were without a doubt the best played characters of such parts ever seen at the local high school Both exemplifying the characteristics of the typical Southern negro and negress and acting as well, these two 'brough dow the house' time after time.

Three coy maidens are visiting the sanitarium. Margie, who stammers, played by Dorothy Bartley, often complicates matters, Janet (Ruth Moffitt) tries to be dignified Beatrice (Marie Richey) is just one more sweet thing All act well and are liked by the audience.

Mr Higgins as played by Charles Plum is an aged superintendent of the rest-cure and acts his part in a dignified business-like way He falls in love with his nurse, Miss Lavelle and in the last scene takes her for a walk. Betty Nelson plays the nurse role and in her charming manner handles the part to perfection

Mr Marshall, Jack's father, as played by Gaylord Rose, is a director of the sanitarium This part was cleverly and capably handled.

Officer McAfferty, who claims he is hard-boiled and 'always gets my man' but sometimes misses, is the typical cop and very well enacted by Robert Hundley At one time he is mistaken by Pluribus for Officer McCrady

Reggie Mortimer who is staying at the sanitarium is much provoked because his meditations are interrupted by the courtship of maidens who lurk in every corner. Lincoln Mader handles this role well

Between acts features also added much zest to the program

The high school orchestra under the direction of C F. Zaenglein played between acts Other features were given by Betty Cooper, Carolyn Herrmann, James Smith and Orville Coleman, Elizabeth Roundhouse and Veronica Kuhns and Paul Davis The choruses are also fine

Church Fire Laid to Firebugs

Photo shows the pathetic ruins of the Episcopal Church of All Saints at Worcester, Mass., after it had been gutted by fire. The loss is estimated as $225,000 and is partly covered by insurance. This was the eighth fire in the city in one week and police believe it to have been of incendiary origin. Police reserves have been called out to guard against a band of firebugs believed to be operating in Worcester and have orders to "shoot to kill" if their suspicions warrant it.

Electric refrigeration eliminates the food spoilage in the home—and saves in many other ways . . . it is an investment that soon pays for itself."

Can you AFFORD to WAIT?

You may think you are running your home economically without electric refrigeration. But are you?

Count the cost of buying food in small quantities . . . at considerably higher prices. Keep track of the perishables that spoil, the leftovers that are thrown out. The loss from these sources alone would quickly pay for a General Electric Refrigerator. And, over and above its savings, a General Electric will lighten the task of preparing more than a thousand meals a day. There is no economy in waiting to buy your General Electric, buy it now and watch the difference in food bills.

Advantages of the General Electric include, Sliding Shelves, Sanitary Porcelain Super-Freezer, the famous Monitor Top with simple mechanism sealed-in-steel. High Tossers to Meet Delaware Here Friday

Locals Can Gain Second Position

Circleville high school's varsity basketball team will have a chance to land in a tie for second place in the Central Buckeye League if it succeeds in defeating Erv Carlisle's Delaware team at the high school gym here Friday night.

Coach "Pete" Herberholz is bending every effort in an attempt to get the Tigers in tip-top condition for the encounter, as a victory will mean something as play progresses through the second round of the league. Results of games Friday will determine winners in the first round of the circuit.

LEADERS CLASH

Westerville and Grandview will probably battle to a 'tee when these two teams meet on the Grandview floor to decide the holder of first place for the first round race. A one-point defeat at the hands of Westerville last week deprived the local Tigers from getting a chance at this honor.

The Tigers have been going through plenty of scrimmage practice this past week and the making of an iron defensive has been under construction. According to advanced-dope the Carlisle-men from Delaware have the fastest offensive machine in the circuit but thus far they have encountered some awfully stiff defenses which has held back their onslaught.

OTHER CONTESTS

The other game besides the Westerville-Grandview tangle and the Circleville-Delaware clash will find Jerry Kingsmore's Marysville team attempting to down Carlton Smith's Bexley Lions on the latter floor Friday eve. Marysville is expected t o take this contest.

According to Coach Herberholz his regular lineup of Davis and Purcell, forwards; Hegele, center and White and Stout, guards, will be in order as the Tigers trek the floor Friday.

Miss Rains' girls will meet the Logan lassies in a prelim to the boys encounter. The freshman and eight grade teams will meet in the first game scheduled to start at 6:45 p. m.

Ted Swayer, former local and Ohio University athlete, will referee the games.

Central Buckeye League standing at present is:

TEAM	W	L	Pct.
Grandview	3	1	.750
Westerville	3	1	750
Circleville	2	2	500
Marysville	2	2	.500
Delaware	1	3	.250
Bexley	1	3	.250

BATTALINO, MILLER GO, NO CONTEST

Champion Stalls, Falls to Canvas Three Times, as Crown Is Vacated.

CINCINNATI, O., Jan. 28.—The world's featherweight throne was vacant today.

Relieved of his title after failing to make the 126-pound weight limit Battling "Bat" Battalino, Hartford, Conn., battler, put up such a poor showing in a bout with Freddie Miller here last night that Referee Lon Bauman declared "no contest" in the third round.

Convinced that the former title holder was stalling, Bauman lifted him to his feet once and urged him to "fight." Another blow from the challenger floored Battalino again and Bauman announced his decision at the direction of the referee left the ring and both fighters resumed the sparring tactics.

Miller, one-time stable-mate of the "Bat," vigorously claimed the crown and refused to leave the ring. He finally was carried to his dressing room by his seconds said the tumult and roar of disgruntled spectators.

With the abrupt ending, Battalino dashed to the loud speaker and explained that he was weakened by his attempt to make the weight limit. When he tipped the beams at 129 3-4 pounds, his $1,000 forfit was turned over to the Cincinnati commission.

Carl Wilsbach, chairman of the commission, climbed through the ropes following the referee's decision. "The commission had foreseen no such emergency," he declared "and money will be returned to all."

As a result of the "no contest" ruling, the throne remains unoccupied, that same condition that would have existed had Battalino won. If Miller had been triumphant, he would have been crowned king, the commission ruled following the weigh-in.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—Olin Dutra, Santa Monica golf pro, played the Brentwood 6,500 yard par 71 course in 63, eight under perfect figures.

The best one round of golf on record in the United States is a 58 turned in by John Black, Oakland, Cal., pro, over the Claremont C. C. 5,625 yard par 68 course.

Bobby Jones stands in the low-scoring class with a 63 shot at Eastlake, Atlanta, course, 6,500 yards long, with a par of 72.

Bill Loomis, pro at the South Shore C. C., Buffalo, scored two holes in one in the first nine holes of a match played at Hyde Park. The first was made on a 110 hole and the second on a 156 yard hole.

Depression Hits the Diamond Stars

Old Man Depression is taking his toll in the baseball market and the number of holdouts increases as contracts for the coming season reach their destinations. Mel Ott, of the Giants, is the first of the announced holdouts to fall in line and sign up at a reduced figure. Mel's teammates, Bill Terry and Fred Fitzsimmons, have stated they will not sign, Terry going so far as to declare his wish that the Giants trade him. Hack Wilson, late of the Cubs but now of the Cards, doesn't like the salary offer of his new bosses and is still unsigned. While the great Babe Ruth cannot be listed as a holdout, the Bambino is hoping for a two-year agreement at the $70,000 figure (a cut of $10,000) offered for one year by Col. Ruppert, owner of the Yanks. Dazzy Vance, the Robins' great pitcher, has been cut from $23,000 to $15,000 and says nothing doing. Others of lesser prominence are lining up for the "holdout championship," but our bet is that all will be on hand when their teams start Spring practice. Maybe somebody will tell the boys it's kind of tough landing a job on the outside.

Tunney Autobiography Will Tell All Of Ring

Gene Tuney has at last completed his long-awaited autobiography, the story of his fighting life.

Under the title "A Man Must Fight," it will appear in Collier's Weekly beginning this week.

One of the most interesting things about the manuscript is that Gene wrote it himself. For four years Tunney has been saying to editors who besought him for permission to assist him in the task. "When my story is told, I'll tell it myself. And I'll write it myself. It may not be great literature, but it will be the truth."

He adds this much more of an explanation, now that the job is done: "Fortunately or unfortunately, according to how one looks at it, every heavyweight champion inherits biographers. With some champions, the more biographers the better. Personally, I have never seen the necessity for the numerous biographies that every champion must stand for.

"There have been at least four biographies written about me. They were so inaccurate from beginning to end that to me they were more amusing than historical.

"I have come to the conclusion that since the public is sufficiently interested in its pugilistic champions to want to know the details of their careers, the least they should do in return for this interest is a true account and not a ghost writer's dream.

"I am one who enjoys reading biographies. I insist however, on having accuracy. It is terribly amusing to hear barbers, policemen, waiters, fictionists and others express their expertness on what took place in the ring at Soldier's Field, Chicago on September 2, 1927. It occurs to me, now that all the experts are on record I, as one of the principals in that affair, might humbly add my impressions to that already greatly swollen record. The average record of an event if reported by ten witnesses, will as a rule be somewhat garbled. To add to the general confession I am going to tell what happened. But I insist here that there is no experience in my life that stands out as clearly as do the incidents leading up to the Chicago match, itself and what took place afterwards."

As an introduction to his 85,000 word manuscript, Gene submits the following prefatory note:

"Independence is the goal of all ambition. Fortunate men occasionally find the way to independence without much search. Wise men select the medium for which they are best equipped by nature and training.

"In my case, though the ladder was short the climb was sheer. If I were again 21 and confronted with the problem, my choice of career would be the same.

"In making the observations on boxing contained in this series of articles it has not been with any intention to discredit professional boxing. Such a purpose could only be ingratitude. I have attempted to write the accurate story of my career. If I step on the toes of the great or the small it is with no vindictive intention. I have only told circumstances as I remember them and as I reacted to them at the time.

"But although I am still an ardent devotee of the sport, it could only be with my tongue in my cheeks that I could express affection for all the elements that make up the profession."

"Which promises plenty!"

policies which would have been stated long ago if the Cooper puzzle had been solved.

One of the Cooper puzzles is the utilities tax. When he first discussed attempting a political comeback following his 1930 defeat by White, the former governor indicated he would advocate the levying of a greatly increased tax on public utilities. Lately, however, the utilities tax has not been generally discussed.

ECONOMY PROGRAM

The biggest plank in the platform of the present governor doubtless will be economy program exercised last year and reiterated this year.

Leading Democrats from all parts of the state were gathering here today preparatory to going to the Lima meeting tonight to hear the governor's address.

Many members of the governor's cabinet, along with the governor's daughter, Miss Mary White, and State Chairman Henry D. Brunner, planned to sit on the platform.

If Cooper decides to announce his candidacy, no such ceremony is expected to attend the issuing of the statement. The statement, instead, is expected to be handed to newspaper men from local Cooper headquarters.

NORRISTOWN, Pa., Jan. 28.—Edward H. B. Allen was indicted for the murder of Francis A. Donaldson, third, his sister's lover, by the grand jury of Montgomery-co at 12:17 this afternoon after they had deliberated only 23 minutes.

Allen took the report of the foreman of the grand jury Herman R. Leslie, insurance agent of Pottstown, Pa., stolidly. He did not even rise to his feet when the true bill was read to the clerk of the court before Judge Harold G. Knight.

DEMOCRATS

Adams-co Democrats will choose the Presidential Elector.

In an address to the convention, Brunner outlined the harmony program and said he did not come to interfere with the politics of the district. He said he was ready to retire at any time anybody wished his position as Chairman and that five years of service was enough sacrifice for any man to make for his party.

Brunner revealed W. A. Julian, Cincinnati, hoped to succeed himself as Democratic National Committeeman. Brunner added the Ohio delegates must settle the question.

REDUCTION OF COST BY WHITE RECORD

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 28—Comparison of figures going back more than 100 years reveals the fact that the $9,646,333 reduction in total operating expenses of the state government, effected in 1931, is the largest ever recorded in the history of Ohio

The decrease alone would have been sufficient to pay the state's expenses for more than 50 years at the rate of expenditure that marked the administration of Ethan A. Brown, one of Ohio's early governors In 1820, under Ethan Brown, the total cost of government was $179,475. By reason of the growth of the state, the constant expansion of governmental functions and other factors, that total had grown to $88,889,270 in 1930, the last year of the administration of former Governor Myers Y. Cooper. This high mark set an all-time record.

INTRODUCES ECONOMY

Besides paying out of the general revenue fund $6,568,628 on debts inherited from his predecessor, Governor George White introduced economies in the first year of his administration that reduced the grand total to $79,242,937, thus setting the new all-time record for decreases.

With virtually all of the obligations left by the preceding administration paid off, and Governor White cutting expenditures 15 per cent under the budgets authorized by the legislature for 1932, state officials predict another record decrease will be accomplished this year

No figures are available for the years between 1803 when Edward Tiffin became Ohio's first governor, by receiving all of the 4,564 votes cast, and 1820, when Governor Ethan Brown ran the state on $179,475 Through 1830, when Allen Trimble was Governor, and 1840 when Wilson Shannon was chief executive, the state government worried along with less than a million dollars a year.

By 1850, when Seabury Ford was Governor, the total had risen to $2,962,000 Gradually after that, through the administrations of Rutherford B. Hayes, George Hoadley, Joseph B Foraker, James E Campbell, William McKinley, Asa Bushnell, George Nash, Myron T Herrick, Andrew Harris, Judson Harmon James M Cox and Frank B Willis expenses grew until a total of $19,736,000 had been reached just before the World War

Population increases and extension of state services were largely responsible for the mounting costs. The first war year saw the $20,000,000 figure reached for the first time In spite of added financial burdens and increased activities growing out of the war, former Governor Cox held the total high mark of his administrations to $29,479,260 Then followed the period of huge highway expenditures, rising commodity prices and wages, big scale developments in government that piled up expenses rapidly Spread of popularity of the automobile and the resultant need for good roads added millions to the annual bill.

DONAHEY WARNS

Governor Vic Donahey retired, warning the public against the constant growth of government and taxes, emphasizing the need for economy which he had both preached and practiced. In the last biennium of Donahey's service the multiplying demands for additional governmental operations had involved expenditures of $114,387,499 for the two years In the next two years, under Governor Cooper this total soared to $154,793,303, an increase of $40,405,804

Old-Fashioned

THE present prides itself on a preference for things new and novel, asserting a conscious independence of tradition and custom. To call a thing old-fashioned is the favorite condemnaton of a period restless with yearning for change. It is a casual comment, easily made and needing little argument, on modes and manners whose chief offense is that they have already been tried and become familiar.

This state of mind keeps life stirring with novelty, entertaining, stimulating and often amusing. It does little damage, until it discredit s old essentials for which no fit substitute is in sight. But the sense of difference between yesterday and tomorrow often loses sight of the distinction between old-fashioned fundamentals and yesterday's transient habits, no better and perhaps no worse than those on trial today. The modernist point of view is dangerously liable to dismiss, because outdated, things that are by no means outworn.

The genuinely old-fashioned custom or code was fashioned long ago and has survived much experience. It has survived because there is in it something universal, something indifferent to every generation's appetite for novelty. Its age and endurance are arguments on its side, and since it has grown slowly and lived long, it cannot be casually thrown away to make quick room for experiments. The demand for change must acknowledge this difference between what was yesterday's transient habit and the fundamental things that were fashioned of old.

HOW many of us are sad victims of the habit of seeking "more?" Says Ranulph Kingsley, writing in the New York Times: "Behind every hand of cards smiles an illusive, imaginary trick which can never be taken, yet a certain misguided type of players is always scheming, striving, straining after it. He feels he must always get just a little more out of everything than anyone else. Sometimes this continual overplay leads to a costly mistake.

"How many men in daily business are that way? They torture themselves and every one around them by constant forcing. Normal sales, normal profits, normal advantages, never satisfy them. Excited by continual acquisition, they keep pressing for 'More! More!

"The unhappiest man I know has an income of $250,000 a year. He always wants something. What he wants he doesn't know. More money, more power, more presstige, more social enjoyment. The real truth is that he doesn't want any specific material thing. But he has spent so many years battling for 'more' that 'more' has now become a complex. His tired, middle-aged brain is rigidly grooved with 'more.' It can't change and relax. This poor old man will probably die whispering 'More!'—just like a dissatisfied child."

The Prosperous Forties

A recent compilation reveals that fact that the average man is at the peak of his prosperity at or around the age of 40. Pick out all the prosperous men you know of in the public eye and you will realize the truth of this fact.

After a man has passed forty years of age, the report shows, the time and the likelihood of his amassing a fortune or even a livelihood, decreases rapidly.

A survey of the lives of "100 average men" showed that at 45 more than half of them were self-supporting or better. Only 15 were dependent. At 55 the number of dependents had doubled and at 65 it was still increasing.

This may be taken either as a threat or a warning. It may be the source of despondency or of keen incentive, accordingly as it is viewed with courage or taken as an ultimatum proclaiming the uselessness of effort.

For the average man the solution lies in the slow accumulation and careful investment of savings. The same statistics note that the earlier savings is begun the greater the ratio of accumulation and the longer prosperity will endure. They are facts for the generation now coming into middle life to consider, and to be taught to the younger generation for it own happiness and security.

SYNOPSIS

Leaving Hawaii shortly after her father's death, young and beautiful Fanchon Meredith goes to San Francisco, where she meets and loves a handsome man named Tony. Fanchon is shocked to learn that Tony is a racketeer, implicated in a recent murder. She, too, is now wanted. Fanchon escapes in an airplane under the name of "Smith." Evelyn Howard, whom she had met on the boat coming from Hawaii, is aboard. Evelyn is enroute to New York to live with her aunt, the wealthy Mrs. Carstairs, whom she has never met. After Fanchon confides in Evelyn, the latter treats her coolly. The plane crashes and Fanchon is the only survivor. She decides to escape Tony and the past and start life anew by masquerading as Evelyn. She requests a doctor to wire Mrs. Carstairs that "Evelyn" is safe. A wire comes from Mrs. Carstairs saying that Collin cannot meet Fanchon. Fanchon learns Collin is Mrs. Carstairs only son. Mrs. Carstairs meets Fanchon at train explaining "But you're not Evelyn, are you . . . You can't be." The girl's terror of being discovered passes when Mrs. Carstairs explains she couldn't believe anyone so beautiful could belong in the family. Her kindness and affection prick Fanchon's conscience. Mrs. Carstairs gives Fanchon a liberal allowance and lavishes affection.

CHAPTER XII

Mrs. Carstairs moved to the bedside table and took up the thermos jug which stood there, poured out a glass of water, shook one of the sleeping powders into it and gave it into Fanchon's hand. "Drink that Doctor's orders!" she said smiling, "and if, in two hours you are not leeping you may have another. If ou wish anything in the night, ring for Emma She is sleeping next door to be near you. But I, and not she, will tuck you in now."

She drew a sheet and a light blanket ove Fanchon, and took the neglıgee from her shoulders. "Lie down," she said, and stooping, kissed her Fanchon held her tightly for a minute. In another moment the lights were out and the cool breeze swept gently into the room and stirred the curtains.

"I only want your happiness," said Mrs Carstairs, oddly from the door "I have made it my business Evelyn."

Two hours later Fanchon snapped on the bedside light and took the second sleeping powder. Her brain was like a merry-go-round. She lay and tossed in a sort of fever of despair. No going back now. And she didn't want to go back Her whole heart had gone out to Jennie Carstairs. If she had been poor and obscure and miserable and still herself. Fanchon's heart would have gone out to her. Fanchon was perfectly unimpressed, by all the ease and luxury. It fitted into the picture and that was all. It was the woman herself who had won her.

And she was an imposter.

But Evelyn was dead. She could not hurt the dead. To confess now would be. she realized dully, to hurt the living tremendously.

After a long time, she slept.

Emma brought her her tray after she woke. It seemed to Fanchon that the maid must have been listening at the door half the morning for it was almost noon before she came in on the very heels of Fanchon's amazed awakening. She had been lying there, very rested, wondering, remembering, hoping and fearing, when Emma's knock came. Emma smiled, widely, her homely pleasant face very friendly,

"Did you sleep well, Miss Evelyn," she asked

"Thank you, Emma. I did, indeed," said Fanchon.

"It's a lovely day and quite cool," Emma told her "I'll run the water for your tub and by the time you are ready for it your tray will be here"

"Mrs. Carstairs?" Fanchon asked, getting out of bed.

"She has been up a long time. She will come in with you while you are breakfasting," Emma told her

"Goodness . . . what time is it?" asked Fanchon.

"Almost twelve, Miss Evelyn"

"My watch," Fanchon said, idly, "stopped when I had the accident."

"I see" said Emma and added, "It was—terrible I never saw Mrs. Carstairs so upset"

Some time later as Fanchon attacked her ice cold melon and her hot, crisp toast, eggs and coffee, Jennie Carstairs came in. She wore a cool suit of black pique with a frilly white blouse and looked entirely lovely

Coming over to kiss Fanchon.

"Did you have a good night?" she wanted to know . "You did? That's splendid! Now, if you want to get up and spend the day out on the terrace, Doctor Wynne thinks it will be all right Tomorrow I will have some people come in and fit you to a few essentials and then we will see if the next day we can't motor down to Southampton."

"My trunk—" began Fanchon, recalling her role.

"You sent it to Southampton, didn't you? And besides you will need quite different things . . . you wrote me you had mostly utility things for the school," Mrs. Carstairs told her.

Fanchon was silent.

The rest of the day she lazed, out in a big chair on the terrace. Mrs. Carstairs was with her most of the time. When she was not, there were books and magazines to read and the wide expanse of city towers, trees, sky and blue water to watch and wonder at. When her "aunt" was with her they talked, as people do who understand one another yet who have not met for years. Mrs. Carstairs asked her about Hawaii and Fanchon, sighing with relief, was able to tell her much about the Islands. As much as she dared, fearing to tell too much, for, after all, she had spent twenty years there to Evelyn's two!

In return Jennie Carstairs spoke of her place in England. "I didn't sell it," she confessed, "it has been let to American friends. We'll go there some day. And to France too." In France, it seemed she maintained a Paris apartment and a small chateau out of town. "But I want you to have a summer here and a New York season first," she explained.

Twice or three times she spoke of Collin. Always with that flush and the hesitant expression, always breaking off in, as it were, mid air.

On the following day, fitters and saleswomen came from the shops and Fanchon was measured for gowns. "They'll have to be ready made for now," said Mrs. Carstairs. In the afternoon the saleswomen came back with the selections. Sport clothes, spectator dresses, afternoon frocks, evening gowns, sweaters, bathing suits, hats and stockings and shoes and lingerie. Nothing had been forgotten. There was something of everything, all in the most perfect taste. And as Fanchon had as perfect a figure as it is possible to have, it was easy to fit her. Even the soft little satin stays had not been forgotten, several of them.

A trunk appeared as if by magic; several trunks; wardrobe, hat and shoe trunks and a matching suitcase and a small fitted overnight case, all of pigskin; all stamped in gold. "E H," and these, Emma packed for her with her new clothes.

Then, they were ready to leave for the Island. Doctor Wynne having come in again and given his permission The trip down, in the big closed car was made with ease and comfort.

The Southampton house was long and low and rambling, painted white with green shutters. It stood very near the dunes, but there was much ground about it, gardens and tennis courts. Fanchon's rooms were overlooking the water, they were done in pale rose, with odd touches of turquoise blue and were very lovely. Emma, having gone down with Jamieson and the trunks earlier, by train, was ready and waiting for them when they arrived and Fanchon's things were all unpacked. Despite her position and her sense of dreamlike uncertainty Fanchon would not have been a normal human girl had she not been as excited as a child. And a child with an income of her own because Mrs. Carstairs had insisted upon her attending to the bank signature before she left and drawing out some money "for peanuts," Mrs. Carstairs had told her, laughing.

The night of her arrrival Jennie gave her a long jeweler's box.

"You're to have pearls," she said smiling, "when you come out. My own must go to Collin's wife, of course."

Was Collin married—or engaged? thought Fanchon.

"When he marries," Mrs. Carstairs went on, "but you shall have a small string of your own. Open the box, Evelyn."

She did so. There was a watch in it, a small platinum watch, severely simple, on a twisted cord set with diamonds.

"Emma told me that you—broke your own." Mrs. Carstairs explained. Fanchon slipped the pretty thing on her wrist. She said, her eyes filling, . . "You shouldn't—it is too much."

"Oh, but I should! Nothing," said Jennie deeply, "is too much or enough."

She added, "Some day you will know—why."

They had been at "Dunerose" for almost a week before Mrs Carstairs spoke of her son again They had been living quietly, seeing no one and going nowhere until Fanchon should be entirely built up and the wounded arm healed. Then one morning at breakfast Jennie Carstairs spoke to her, hesitantly laying down the letter she had been reading.

"Collin will be home soon," she said, and added, a worried frown on her smooth forehead, "I hope you will understand . . and not take him too seriously I wrote you, of course . . and am so ashamed of his attitude . . . it is so manifestly unfair. But he is terribly [illegible] . ."

James came out to the breakfast porch with an announcement that Mrs. Carstairs was wanted on the telephone. When she came back other interruptions occurred and the conversation was not resumed

The following day Jennie motored to Easthampton to see an old friend who was just there over night and who had been very ill. Fanchon, given her choice, stayed at home.

She was out in the rose-arbour, lying in the swing, an unread novel on her lap, listening to the crash of waves on smooth sand, feeling the warm sun on her body, catching the scent of salt and roses and somehow dreaming herself back home, back in Hawaii, when she heard the sound of light footsteps. She looked up, sat up, staring in amazement.

Theaters

AT THE CLIFTONA

What is said to be the most drama, screen comedy of the season comes to Circleville tomorrow and Saturday when Universal's newest production "Many a Slip" opens an engagement at the Clifton Theatre

Joan Bennett and Lew Ayres are the featured players in this story of laughs and misunderstandings, and the cast also includes such well known screen players as Slim Summerville Virginia Sale, Ben Alexander, Vivien Oakland, Roscoe Karns and J. C. Nugent.

"Many a Slip" tells the romantic story of a girl and a boy, with the girl discovering that she has fallen in love with the young man. Feeling that he has positive ideas against marriage, and wishing to become his wife, the artful young lady allows him to think she is expecting an interesting event—and they are married at once.

AT THE GRAND

Marian Marsh, who comes to the Grand Theatre Thursday is her first starring vehicle, "Under Eighteen," a Warner Bros. production, began when she was acting as leading lady to John Barrymore in "Svengali" to jot down every night every word of theatrical advice given her by star or director. She did the same when playing with Edward G. Robinson in "Five Star Final;" with William Powell in "The Road to Singapore" and again with Mr. Barrymore in "The Mad Genius." That unique record of what the stars said and what Marian thought about what they said, has so pleased the critics that the book is to be published in the near future.

Ears Are Easily Infected and Demand Watching

Organs of Hearing Are Sensitive and When Trouble Appears a Doctor Should Be Consulted to Avoid Serious Results

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

TODAY I want to tell you about some common ear complaints. Most of them are caused by negligence.

Dr Copeland

Have you ever noticed how many persons there are who constantly scratch or pick at their ears? Not only is the an unpleasant sight, but it is a practice that often leads to trouble. Others are too energetic in cleaning their ear and in this way do damage.

As a result of this too strenuous cleaning, the wax is pushed inward It may be formed into a plug that cuts out the sound waves, then there is difficulty in hearing

If you have an excessive amount of wax in the ear do not pick at it or try to remove it Above all, never use a toothpick or a hairpin in this effort. It should be removed but it is better done by a physician He will get rid of it without damaging the ear drum.

One who has a cold or sore throat may complain of pain in the ears This occurs when the infection travels from the throat or nose to the ear An infection of this type requires attention.

The middle ear is an acceptable place for germs to grow If this happens they will eventually produce an inflammation, perhaps with pus formation Then there will be severe pain in the ear, and sometimes the condition requires surgical attention.

There is one thing about which I would warn you Avoid excessive and violent blowing of the nose Many individuals seem to think it is in blowing the nose it is necessary to make as much noise as possible The pressure caused by doing this is often enough to shoot the infective material to the middle ear

The nose should be blown gently and slowly It is best to empty one nostril at a time, and to do it very gently.

A common and annoying condition is itching of the ear This may occur when water remains in the ear after swimming or bathing or it may be due to eczema of the skin lining the canal of the ear When rough efforts are made to scratch the ear it may bleed If the fingernails are dirty infection may occur, and this may develop into a painful abscess

When the external ear is exposed to great cold, it may become frostbitten If this happens, never use hot applications or hot water To do so may cause severe damage. The ear should be rubbed with snow or ice water The cold massage is stimulating and brings about the normal blood supply

Chronic discharge from the ears is a common condition in children. This is usually a result of measles or scarlet fever A child with an infection of this sort should receive proper attention by a specialist

One of the most annoying conditions of adult life is head noise In elderly people this is usually due to a hardening process in the tissues in the ear or to high blood pressure.

In young children these noises in the head may be due to some abnormality of the ear nose, throat, sinuses or tonsils The exact cause can be determined only by a careful examination.

A—You should weigh about 146 pounds—this would be about average for your age and height as determined by examination of a large number of persons

2—You probably eat between meals. Avoid this. Be sure to keep your system clear by drinking lots of water between meals and by taking lots of outdoor exercise every day. For further particulars send a self addressed stamped envelope and repeat your question.

E. S. R—What causes constant pain around the heart?

A—An examination is necessary to determine the cause.

RIVAL TOWNS IN WETNESS

ABERDEEN, Wash. — Aberdeen is a wet town—but Forks is wetter! Aberdeen was priding itself on leading Grays harbor county with a rainfall of 102.18 inches for 1931 until Forks turned in a record of 139.42 January precipitation was 23.55. Only 100 miles away, east of the Olympic mountains, Sequim had to be satisfied with 16.4 inches of rain for the year.

TWIN EARTH DWELLERS

WAREHAM, Mass.—Two unemployed bachelors have gone "earth dwellers." Roman Britto, 31, and his chum, Joseph Garcia, 29, have established a "mud igloo" which they have occupied since last November. The "mud palace" has two dark chambers, both of them windowless. Within these they sleep and cook their food.

How One Man Lost 22 Pounds

Mr. Herman Runkis of Detroit writes: "A few lines of thanks from a rheumatism sufferer—my first bottle of Kruschen Salts took all the aches and swellings out of my joints—with my first bottle I went on a diet and lost 22 pounds and now I feel like a new man."

To lose fat SAFELY and quickly take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast.

For your health's sake ask for and get Kruschen—the cost for a bottle that lasts 4 weeks is but a trifle at any drugstore in the world and if after the first bottle you are not joyfully satisfied with results money back. Hamilton & Ryan and all good druggists will be glad to supply you.—Adv.

BEHIND the SCENE In HOLLYWOOD

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Cal. — Hollywood's campaign to bring the children back into the theatres reached a strange climax today in a statement made to me by B. P. Schulberg, managing director of production at the Paramount Studios.

"Last year we turned out pictures like 'Skippy' and "Sooky," " said Mr. Schulberg, "and now we find the children flocking to see the psycho-analytical 'Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde' and the Macabre 'Frankenstein.'

"It seems we made a mistake in assuming that children are interested in stories about children. The adults were the ones who took up 'Skippy.' Children like grown-up screen fare.

"In fact, I'm almost ready to believe we have no children today. I have a 9-year-old, and I tried him out on books I liked when I was 9, books such as the Henty series. He thought they were nonsense.

"I suppose it's part of the fast-moving age we live in. Our children achieve an early sophistication. We may as well admit it."

The result of this discovery is that Paramount will make no more children's stories this year. They already have let out Jackie Searle and Mitzi Green, and Jackie Coogan has, I believe, only one more picture on his contract. Little Robert Coogan still is with the company, but there is talk of putting him in casts with adults.

CINEMA WAY.

The film colony is much excited over Gene Dennis, the mental marvel. Executives and stars are consulting her and are amazed at her uncanny answers. Even big-timers like Louis B. Mayer have listened with interest . . . Barry Norton is back in Hollywood, many pounds lighter, after an exile in Tahiti. When he left Hollywood he was threatened with baldness. Away from curious eyes on his island retreat he shaved his head and kept it shaved for several months. Now he has a shock of new hair and is looking fine . . . Martin Flavin, the playwright, has returned after a six months' absence and has taken Colleen Moore's home in Belair. It is one of the show places of the film colony, boasting a guest bungalow, swimming pool and a motion picture theatre. While away Flavin completed a new play, "Peas Porridge." He'll take up his screen writing again at Paramount . . . John Darrow developed blood poisoning while vacationing at Lake Arrowhead and had to be flown to Los Angeles in a special plane. He's much better now . . . Saw Paramount's two foreign sensations, Marlene Dietrich and Sari Maritza, lunching only a few tables away from each other. Marlene, of course, was accompanied by Josef Von Sternberg . . . Jack Gilbert stole the show on the Barney Glazer-Sharon Lynn wedding party to Yuma. The citizens of this Western Gretna Green nearly mobbed Jack. After the ceremony was over, Sharon and Barney re-enacted it for the news photographers. Mickey Nellan directed the scene.

PICTURES WIN.

Now Jackie Cooper will have to wait to collect that young fortune for personal appearances. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer will start him right in on "Limpy," which Harry Pollard will direct. After that, the studio has "Pecks' Bad Boy" and an original story, "My Kid Brother," in which Jackie will co-star with Robert Montgomery. In our talk about child-stars, B. P. Schulberg admitted that Jackie is an exception to any rule.

This young actor has gained 6 pounds and grown 2 inches in the three months since he finished "The Champ." Four times a year his mother has to renew his permit to act. At such time he is weighed, measured and given a physical examination.

ONE ON DOUG.

Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., is telling an amusing story about his famous father.

"You've heard, of course, about Doug's proposed trip to the South Seas. The other afternoon he was describing it with characteristic enthusiasm.

"This will be a real trip," he exclaimed. "We'll be gone three months and we'll wear our old clothes and let our beards grow. We'll be roughing it."

"How are you going?" asked Doug. Jr.

"In Joe Schneck's yacht," replied Fairbanks pere.

United States marines and British troops repaired the earthworks of the international steelement and erected barbed wire entanglements.

It was known Japan wished to avoid international complications, but with the Japanese action, which might be occupation of the Chinese quarters of the city or even bombardment of Chinese forts, there will arise a great danger of an overt action on the part of either the Chinese or Japanese which would embroil the whole western world.

FAMOUS PAIR TO APPEAR ON FEB. 4

On Thursday evening, Feb. 4, at Memorial Hall, Columbus, the most brilliant conjoint concert of the season will be staged.

The 26-year old Hungarian contralto Rosetta Anday of Vienna and Berlin Staats Opera, will sing appearing with one of the gigantic pianists of the world, Egon Petri, both on their first American tour.

Both artists have passed the gamut of the first line critics of New York, being received with tremendous success at their first American appearances.

Anday has a contralto voice as gorgeous as a rare cello, while Egon Petri, pianistically has phenomenal attributes as musician pedagog, and international concert pianist.

These two great artists will be heard for the price of one concert, and the very fact of their newness in these days of concert repetition should be of special interest to the surrounding cities.

Lighthouse in South Carolina Leaning Tower

Washington.—The United States has a rival for the Tower of Pisa. This encroachment on the famous Italian tower has been going on for 60 years, and South Carolinians have hardly mentioned the fact.

The leaning tower in South Carolina is the Cape Romain lighthouse, built in 1828.

It was rebuilt in 1858 and again in 1857 During the Civil war the lens and lanterns were destroyed and it was not until 1868 that the lighthouse was again in operation.

All went well until 1869, when slight cracks were discovered in the tower and within a year it was observed that the tower had begun to lean.

This leaning necessitates frequent leveling of the lens and lighting apparatus. The lean is sufficient to be plainly noticeable to mariners passing up and down the coast.

Adding new light to the old lighthouse has just been accomplished by the Department of Commerce installing a more powerful light.

Poison Ivy's Secret

How One Woman Lost 10 Lbs. in a Week

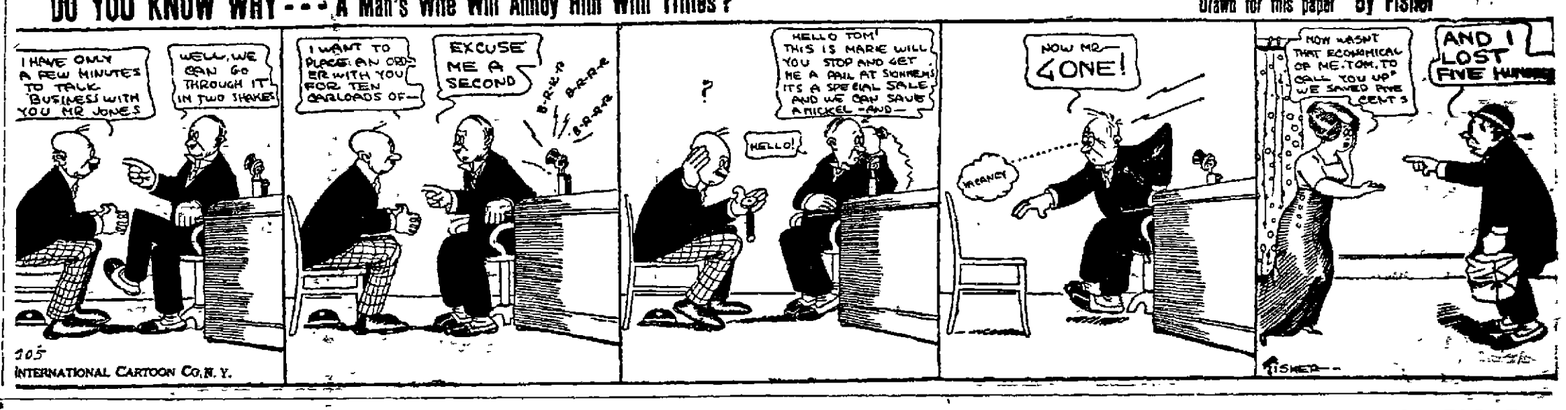

Mrs. Betty Luedeke of Dayton writes "I am using Kruschen to reduce weight—I lost 10 pounds in one week and cannot say too much to recommend it."

To take off fat easily, SAFELY and HARMLESSLY—take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast—it is the safe way to lose unsightly fat and one bottle that lasts 4 weeks costs but a trifle. If this first bottle fails to convince you this is the safest way to lose fat—money back.

But be sure and get Kruschen Salts—imitations are numerous and you must safeguard your health.

MONROE TWP. SCHOOL NOTES

The Farmers' Institute which was held in the auditorium of the High School, Jan. 22 and 23, was well attended.

The Caesar class is making a map of ancient Europe.

The Freshman English class is making an intensive study of Treasure Island.

The Philomatheon Literary Society will give a program on Friday afternoon. Everybody welcome.

Those of the High School that have perfect attendance are Evelyn Smith, Ruth Crawford, Frances Arbogast, Drusilla Payne, Elvin Crawford, Vivian Smith and Clyde Winfough.

Using the same short passing attack that has been so obvious of their team work all season, the Monroe girls' team was able to swamp the Williamsport team by the tune of 33-11. The all around play of forward Evelyn Smith and the stellar guarding of Mary Terlinger featured.

The contest between the Monroe and Williamsport boys was one that had fans on their feet nearly the whole game. It was one of the most thrilling contests in the history of county basketball games. After a hectic battle in which each team fought like demons, the score was found to be knotted 18 to 18. A five minute over time period was played and the score was tied again For the benefit of the players and fans the tie was agreed to be played off at a later date. For Monroe, Clyde Winfough and Carl Haller played great ball.

PICKAWAY SCHOOLS

The George Washington Bicentennial Celebration which we are just entering upon is being given considerable emphasis at the present time. The upper elementary grades will give a Washington's birthday program on or near Feb. 22, and the Washington Every Pupil Test for grades 3 to 12 will be given the latter part of the month.

County Superintendent D L Buchanan and Attendance Officer Ferd Dumm paid our school a visit Monday forenoon. Approximately 12 per cent of our pupils are absent because of an epidemic of colds and sore throat.

Our games with Kingston last Friday night resulted favorably for us. Both games were interesting for the spectators, and it was clear that the players were making every effort to score.

This week we go to Ashville where we expect plenty of opposition, but we go determined to give a good account of ourselves.

The juniors recently ordered their class rings from A. J. Burkart of Herff-Jones and Company. They have the choice of February or September delivery.

The scarlet fever cases of our township seem to be about cleared up, and it is hoped that no new ones will develop. The last quarantine is being lifted this week.

The seniors have ordered their invitations and cards from Herff-Jones. This reminds us that another year is drawing to a close and that another class is approaching their Commencement. The date of this event probably will be Tuesday, May 24. School closes Friday, May 20.

Due to the fact that Farmers' Institute came on the regular date of meeting, the January session of the P. T. A. was postponed to Thursday evening, Jan. 28. At that time there will be a program promises at least a few laughs.

The following eighth grade pupils were neither absent nor tardy during the first semester: Josephine Cline, Cora Ruth White, Joseph Markley. and Gerald Millar. We hope to have several more perfect attendance records for this semester.

The Ashville high boys and girls copped a double header from Scioto high boys and girls at the Ashville gym last Friday night. The boys won 25-14 and the girls defeated the Scioto girls 35-23 in one of the most thrilling contests ever played on the local gym.

This Friday the Ashville boys and girls will entertain the Pickaway boys and girls. The Pickaway boys have not lost a game this season, and are responsible for the only loss the Ashville boys suffered up to the present time. The Ashville boys will try to even the count on the Pickaway boys this Friday. This will be one of the hardest games of the season and should turn out to be a fast and thrilling game..

The Seniors have picked out their invitations. They are of the formal type and are according to the Seniors, very nice.

Erma Valentine has been chosen by Mrs. Gamer to assist in getting school news each week. Anyone having school news should see either Mrs Gamer or Erma.

Mr. and Mrs. Gamer had a number of the high school students as their guests to a theatre party at the Cliftona Sunday afternoon to see Ben Hur. The object at first was to reward certain pupils for superior work during the last six weeks, but due to a manifest interest of many others to see the picture, they were gladly included too.

Franklin Crites of Stoutsville, high school, was a visitor in our school Tuesday afternoon.

Divorce Santa

Though only 26 years old and a bachelor, Judge Antonio Del Rosal, of the Juarez, Mexico, Civil Court, has earned the reputation of being the "easiest divorce judge." Judge Rosal's generosity in the matter of handing out decrees has turned Juarez and the neighboring El Paso into divorce colonies that make Reno look like a rummage sale. The Mexican province of Chihuahua has enacted a divorce law which makes it possible to sever the marital knot in 24 hours in complete secrecy.

A cold does 3 things

"Pape's" stops them all

A cold always affects you in at least three ways. Air passages are inflamed and irritated. Perspiration is checked. Bowels are clogged with acid wastes from the mucous discharge. So doctors say you must do three things to be rid of a cold.

Pape's Cold compound does all three! It reduces inflammation and swelling of the mucous membrane; it induces perspiration; opens the bowels. Chew one of these pleasant tablets and see how quickly nasal discharge stops; head clears; breathing becomes easy. See how that achy, feverish, weak feeling disappears. And "Pape's" doesn't stop with killing cold germs. It activates bowels and removes germs and acid wastes from the system. All drug stores — 35c. Just remember "Pape's"—Adv.

Better Meats for LESS

Learn Why

Funk's Quality Meats

WERE SELECTED FOR

The Herald's Cooking School

Funk's Groceteria is the exclusive dealer in Circleville for Genuine David Davies Baby Beef.

Dishes prepared by her, before the throngs of women attending the classes must be good. There can be no compromise with quality. Neither can there be any extravagance. That would not be in harmony with her money saving budget. It is significant that she selected Funk's for meats.

and so do CIRCLEVILLE HOUSE WIVES

Week after week and month after month, more and more women depend on our market for their Meat requests. They have found that the Quality, Price and Service are all agreeable. It is gratifying to us to notice that our friends are still our customers and that new customers become our friends.

MRS. THURN WILL TELL YOU WHY

"YOU CAN'T AFFORD TO PAY LESS AND IT'S EXTRAVAGANT TO PAY MORE."

Friday—Last Day of

The Cooking School at Memorial Hall

Stevenson's Store appreciates the privilege of joining te Herald's Cooking School which we feel is a splendid service to the home makers of this vicinity, and we are pleased to cooperate in that the home of today may be more thrifty in home economies.

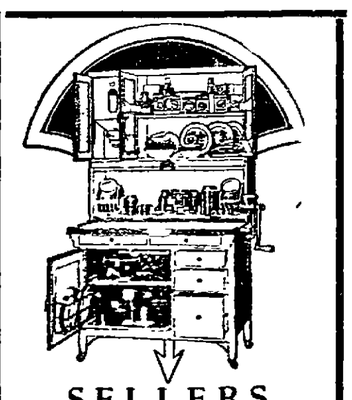

For the last two days of The Herald's Cooking School, Mrs. Thurn, the director, will use an entirely different type of dining room suite from that used for the first two days. The second is a substantially built and charmingly designed suite showing the Early English influence, and therefore quite in the present-day vogue. It is noteworthy especially for its attractive decorations, its heavy carvings and substantial posts.

Especially in the oaken door of the glassless china cabinet is the Early English influence felt. This cabinet, incidentally, is fitted with a drawer, the front of which, like that of the buffet, is in a paneled effect.

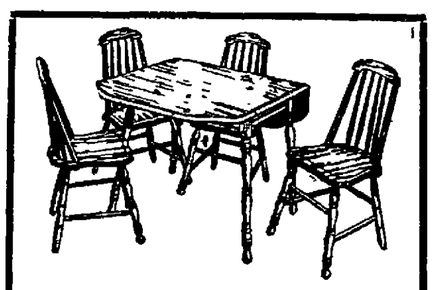

Construction is of Oak Veneer in combination with hardwood, all finished in a beautiful nut brown color—not the old fashioned yellow golden oak. Regularly priced —9 pieces—at $162.50

Cooking School Special $146.25

SELLERS KITCHEN CABINETS

Note the Sellers cabinet—not like picture—with the handy bread-box, porcelain covered shelf, all containers easily removed for cleaning, two large storage drawers, two large storage cupboards with automatic bottom extension (no kneeling or squatting to reach a pan—open the door and they come out to you). Green, Ivory, Gray, White all at the same price $52.25

The Breakfast Suite

Unlike the picture, the breakfast suite used at the School is an extension table with four heavy chairs. Suite is made of sturdy oak throughout. Table carries leaves under the top and will extend to five feet in length. This is not a cheap suite, but one that will give the service that you would expect to receive. Breakfast sets start at $9.50 (unfinished). The one on the stage is priced at only $30.00

STEVENSON'S

Ask yourself "Won't a strong fat cause indigestion?"

Isn't it safer to use Crisco—the wholesome digestible shortening?

Before you make your next batch of biscuits, look at your shortening. Does it look good to eat? Does it smell inviting? How does it taste?

If your shortening isn't 100% good, aren't you afraid it may be indigestible?

Now—open a sanitary can of Crisco and make the same test. It looks good to eat—as pure as new cream. It smells fresh. It tastes as sweet as new-churned butter.

Crisco is digestible. It doesn't begin to turn rancid when it is exposed to air. It keeps its pure wholesomeness for months . . . because it's made by Crisco's own secret process to keep digestible!

Make Wrap-Arounds with the fluffy, puffy biscuits that Crisco makes. They'll taste good. They'll digest easily!

RUSSIAN WRAP-AROUNDS

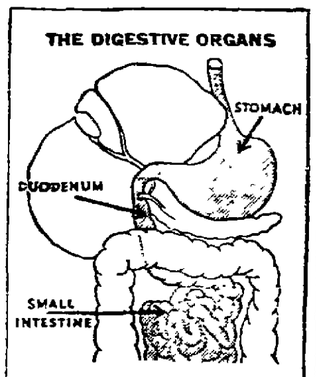

1 pound chopped steak — salt and pepper to taste
1 tablespoon minced onion — Crisco

Mix steak with onion and seasoning. Form into fat patties. Put enough Crisco into skillet to cover bottom liberally when melted. Brown meat on both sides. Save Crisco in pan for cream gravy.

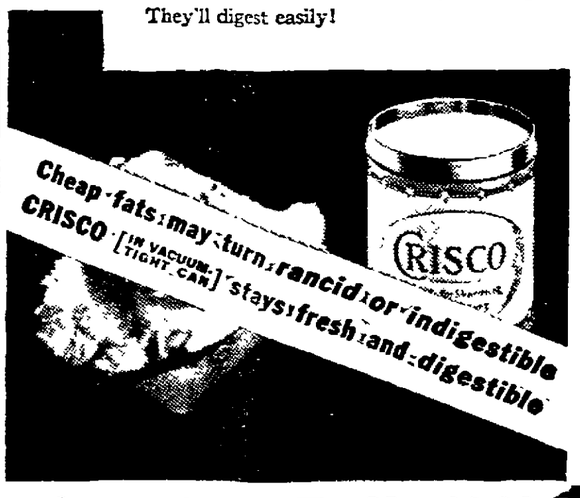

BISCUIT DOUGH

2 cups flour — ½ teaspoon salt — ¾ cup milk (variable)
4 teaspoons baking powder — 4 tablespoons Crisco

Mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt. Work in the shortening, for light, digestible biscuits use the sweet, pure vegetable shortening—Crisco. Crisco is not strong, tasteless, so sweet and fresh itself, it makes foods taste better. Cut in the Crisco with a knife or rub in with the fingertips. Add milk gradually and mix to a soft dough. Roll out on a lightly floured board to ½ inch thickness. Cut into triangles or squares. Place cooked meat patties on dough triangles and fold over as for apple dumplings. Place in Crisco-ed pan and bake for 10 to 15 minutes at 450 F. Left over Crisco left in frying pan and 1 tablespoon flour, stirred well blended. Then add about 1 cup milk, cook until slightly thick. Salt to taste. Add chopped parsley and pour over biscuits.

At these 3 danger points, ordinary fats may cause digestive troubles. Crisco digests easily.

In the cooking school conducted in Memorial Hall under the auspices of The Herald, Mrs. George O. Thurn uses and recommends Crisco, the modern shortening that digests easily
